

Applied Research Center Student Newsletter

Cesar Clavero wins Young Researcher Award

Cesar Clavero, a Research Associate with William and Mary, will be receiving the 2008 Outstanding Young Researcher Award from the Thin Film Division of the American Vacuum Society, for his work on magneto-plasmonic materials at William and Mary. This prestigious award will be presented to him during the upcoming AVS International meeting being held in Boston (October 19-24, 2008).

A Full article is at:

<http://www.wm.edu/news/stories/2008/Clavero-thin-film-award-1432.php>

Cesar Clavero, is pictured here with his advisor, Dr. Ale Lukaszew and members of their group, Kaida Yang and Jonathan Skuza.

Lab Visitors

John Hogan and Ed Daily from JLab's Accelerator Research and Development department came by the labs on October 7 to receive training to operate the Hirox Microscope.

FTIR Training

Sarah Gawan, Amelia Bagnall, Greta Glaser, and Shelly Svolsoda from Colonial Williamsburg came down to the labs on October 20th as the second group to learn how to operate the FTIR.